Additional guidance provided by the CSIET Board of Directors

Sampling and Reports – The number of files of participants examined by reviewers varies widely. Based on review, it appears that an average of 10% sampling (with a cap of 125 files) is a reasonable and appropriate sample. For very small Agencies, this can make the sample so limited as to have no validity. In those cases, individual reviewers might wish to increase the sample size to a minimum level of 20 files (or all participants if fewer than 20) which should provide statistically valid results. Further, some reviewers find it useful to review slightly higher numbers of files. This might only be necessary where a pattern of problems exists and it is necessary to “pull additional files” to validate a particular finding.
